Whale Watch

In this challenging element the group must accomplish a common task by balancing a teetering platform. In most cases the team must load the platform one at a time at a specific location (the middle of the platform). If, at any time during the activity the platform comes in contact with the ground the group must start over. The objective is to have the entire group on the platform without it touching the ground.

POTENTIAL EDUCATIONAL OUTCOMES:

- Managing Long & Short Term Goals
- Group Interdependence
- Creative Problem Solving
- Communication
- Awareness of Team Norms
- Effective Leadership
- Team Work

Islands

This activity consists of three stationary platforms with the objective to get your entire group from the first platform to the last platform without any member ever leaving any of the platforms. The group will have two tools to aid them in their task. If at anytime a tool falls into the ground, then that tool is no longer to be used by the group. If any person falls from the platform, then the facilitator may institute some consequences for not adhering to the guidelines provided.

POTENTIAL EDUCATIONAL OUTCOMES:

- Communication
- Problem Solving
- Teamwork
- Patience
- Group Effort
- Group Interdependence

Centipede

Using this horizontal web, the objective is to get the group through the entire web without anybody touching the web. The group must be connected the entire time. If any person hits any part of the web with any part of their body at anytime, then the entire group must start over. Also, if any person UN-connects with their group at any time during the activity, then the entire group must start over. And finally, you can never have your two feet in the same hole at the same time.

POTENTIAL EDUCATIONAL OUTCOMES:

- Effective Communication
- Group Interdependence
- Perseverance
- Problem Solving
