The goal of this team building experience is to acquire the supplies needed to participate in a Trebuchet / Catapult competition. Participants are divided into teams of 8 to 12 with the task of completing a series of team initiatives. Each team will have 10 to 30 minutes to complete the team initiative and then rotate. After successful completion, the group will receive an object reward. If the team does not complete the initiative in the allowed time, the team owes the facilitator tokens. All teams start with a limited amount of tokens and must earn enough to buy all their object rewards. In Phase II of this activity, teams are allowed to practice launching objects. Phase III is the Trebuchet competition in which participants compete in three categories: Furthest, Most Accurate and Most Targets Hit. Tokens are awarded for each round. If a tiebreaker is needed, teams will only compete for the furthest launch.

FingerPrint

Just like fingerprints, each person and team has a unique identity that makes them valuable. Help your employees and their teams explore their identity through intentional activities and facilitated discussions. Participants will be able to use their findings to benefit the team and to realize their role in the successful development of the team. Participants will experience team-based initiatives and small group discussions to help uncover results for personal and team development. Each fingerprint program is designed around the needs and goals of your team. The needs of the team can be as specific as trust, or as general as team development. For example, if the team needs to work on building trust, then all the activities will be facilitated towards how the team can create the environment of trust both during the event and in the work environment. Fingerprint is lapdog's signature program that is focused on the development of your employees and your teams.

Synergy
